TOMMY IS NOT DEAD

His Case Was Pronounced a Hopeless One, But He'll Live.

FRIENDS PULLED HIM OUT

He Had Asked His Father for Money, and an Answer Was Awaiting Him When He Took the Drug.

Butte, Sept. 16.-Tommy Conners, the foolish young man who swallowed an ounce and a half of ladanum last night because he had failed to receive a telegram from his father, which had een waiting for him for two days at Western Union office, is very much alive this evening and in a week he will probably be as well as ever, notwithstanding the fact that his condition was pronounced hopeless by two doctors at 2:30 o'clock this morning. His recovery is due to physical force instead of medical skill and the industrious manner in which two or three of his friends slapped him and waltzed him around after the doctors had given him up, covered his body with wells and bruises saved his life. Conners came to Butte last Tuesday from Marysville accompanied by a woman who goes by the name of Inez Fairchild and who is an inmate of the Little Club, an East Mercury street resort. Immediately after his arrival here he telegraphed his father, Mr. Comers, of No. 2158 Reade street, the African race won't lose their color and are A I some mistake, however, the young man did not receive the message, and com-ing to the conclusion that his parents ing to the conclusion that his parents had given him the cold shake, he decided last evering to end all of his troubles. He accordingly went out and bought a two-ounce bottle of laudanum and swallowed two-thirds of it.

Before taking the poison he wrote a note to his female friend and left it at note to his female friend and left it at the messenger office with instructions that it be delivered to her at 12 o'clock sharp. In the note he told her to tele-graph to his father that he had killed himself and wanted to be buried be-side his sisters. He told her that he had taken poison and locked the door on the inside and that she would have to get some one to "bust it in." The closing sentence of the note was "may-be he will answer this, good bye for-ever." The supposition is that he took the laudanum about 10:30 o'clock, and the laudanum about 10:30 o'clock, and he swallowed enough to kill three ordinary men. What he supposed was his dying message was delivered to his lady friend promptly at midnight, as per instructions. She could not understand the communication for water and stand the communication, however, and sent a note back asking him what he stand the communication, however, and sent a note back asking him what he meant. The messenger boy was unable to arouse Conners and his suspicions were aroused by his toud breathing. He accordingly summoned the proprietor of the block and about 2 o'clock a man was pushed over the transom of the door. He found Conners tylag on his back and breathing heavily, and the almost empty bottle of laudanum stating beside the bed made it plain that it was a case of suicide. Conners was perfectly insensible and it was impossible to arouse him from his possible to arouse him from his A doctor was summoned and after e careful examination he pronounced the case a hopeless one. The most power-ful hypodermic injections had no effect and the doctor said that he could not live longer than an hour. Conners' friends were not satisfied with this diagnosis of the case, however, and at their urgent request the doctor who was first summoned went out and bunted up another medical man.

After he left several of Conners' friends proceeded to energetically slap his face and breast and walk him his face and breast and walk him around in the hope that they would be able to arouse him from his stupor, and they worked so hard and earnestly that when the first doctor returned with the second one, the man whose recovery had been pronounced impossible was fighting off his friends in a half dazed way. This heroic treatment was continued and about 8 or 9 o'clock this morning the would-be suicide was out of danger. The telegram from his father was handed him soon lafter he fully regained his senses and he immediately expressed an earnest he immediately expressed an earner destre to recover.

Police Captain Waters and a Standand reporter visited him this evening and found him resting easily, although he is very sore from the beating he received. Conners had some trouble with his father last January and he left home, and when he wrote home for money recently all his requests went unheeded until last Saturday.
